There's a new sheriff in town

Garber outdraws Murphy; Ladner defeats Randolph

BY ED LEPOMA

The campaign rhetoric of the few months is silenced, and in the dust settled Tuesday night, Hancock County voters elected a new sheriff, a new police chief, a new tax assessor-collector, and a new supervi-or going into the general election, the average man on the street would tell you the sheriff's race was too close to call, but a few would predict that an incumbent who had 18 years of experience leading Hancock County would be defeated.

All the candidates had waged vigorous campaigns, with hundreds of signs sprouting along roads and highways, door-to-door visits, flyers in the mail, newspaper and broadcast ads had participated in some on-profile political forums.

But, the outcome of the sheriff's race wasn't even close. Democrat Steve Garber of Kiln easily dismissed Republican challenger Ray Murphy, the former Bay St. Louis Chief of Police.

Complete, but unofficial results compiled by the Circuit Court Clerk's office showed Garber with 8,588 votes or 68 percent to 4,041 or 32 percent for Murphy.

Murphy, who owns a professional cleaning service, recently waged a very public battle with city St. Louis officials after losing possession of a previous public parking lot that fronts South Boulevard. And, he has been in court, and has been ordered to remove horses he has stabled on Union Street.

It was obvious, Murphy irked downtown merchants and others in the city. In the City Hall precinct, he gathered 96 votes to 267 for Garber. Murphy won only two of 28 precincts, Diamondhead East and Diamondhead West.

Garber, an assistant fire chief in Waveland, carried the other 26 precincts by some substantial margins, showing strength in Waveland, on the Lakeshore, in Pearllington and in the northern reaches of the county.

It was Garber's second run for sheriff, but he showed his strength in the August primary runoff, when he wrestled the Democratic nomination from five-term incumbent Sheriff

Sheriff-elect Steve Garber gets a congratulatory hug from wife Tammy Tuesday night outside the Hancock County Courthouse as vote totals are read. Garber, a Democrat, took the party's nomination from incumbent Sheriff Ronnie Peterson in last August's primary election and handily defeated Republican opponent Ray Murphy in Tuesday's general election. Ronnie Peterson. Besides his fire department experience, Garber worked as a part-time sheriff's deputy from 1984 until last December, when he resigned to enter the race for sheriff. He also served as an elected constable from 1992 to 1995.

Randolph, who served four consecutive terms as superintendent of county schools, was defeated by Democrat Myrna Bourgeois, then came back to defeat Bourgeois in the 1996 election and regain his position. A Republican, Randolph ran on his record, flaunting building programs that have seen the recent construction of new middle and elementary schools and improvements to other schools.

But, voters elected instead Democrat Mike Ladner, whose own qualifications to run were Opponents of establishing a private landfill in Hancock County waged a sign campaign for several months urging voters to defeat Proposition 1.

Voters scrap private dump

BY ED LEPOMA

It was a case of a little too much, a little too late.

That's the way Bay St. Louis Mayor Eddie Favre Tuesday night described the overwhelming defeat of a ballot proposition that would have allowed a private developer to open and operate a landfill in the Stennis buffer zone.

Favre was at the historic Hancock County Courthouse when the votes were being tabulated, and seemed disappointed, but not surprised when early counts indicated voters favored another proposition, which would have the county own and operate the landfill, if one is built.

Favre, Bay Councilwoman Carleen Moran, Waveland Mayor Tommy Longo and former Waveland Mayor John Mason, all members of the Regional Solid Waste Authority, took out a full page ad in Sunday newspapers explaining to others why they favored a private landfill. They later followed up with a direct mail piece to voters. Moran also had a lengthy letter to the editor in Sunday's Echo, explaining her reasons for favoring a private landfill.

"Some of the mailers didn't get to people until today when they had already voted," Favre told the Echo. "Maybe, we should have spoken out sooner."

But, Mary Sindors, of Waveland, whose Citizens for Responsible Dumping, mounted a petition drive that forced the

Supers ask for MDOT's help

BY ED LEPOMA

District 2 Supervisor Rocky Pullman of Pearllington wants the Mississippi Department of Transportation to look at two trouble spots in Hancock County.

At Monday's meeting of the board of Supervisors, Pullman got unanimous board approval for two resolutions asking MDOT for help.

He said state Hwy. 607 as it heads north to meet Interstate 60 was particularly dangerous. "There's been quite a few accidents there," Pullman told fellow supervisors.

Pullman's request for MDOT to look at that area came on the heels of an accident Friday night which injured a Long Beach woman.

Officials reported that Janice Morreale, 54, was critically injured about 7 p.m. when her car collided with another vehicle near the 607-Interstate-10 junction.

She was taken to Northshore Regional Medical Center in Slidell, and a spokesperson Tuesday said she remained in critical condition. The hospital would release no further details on the extent of her injuries. Collins J. Osborne, 23, of Bay St. Louis, the driver of the second vehicle, and passenger Tara Brady, 23, were treated and released from Northshore.

Military Memorabilia Exhibit opens at the Depot

Once again the City of Bay St. Louis will offer a special Military Memorabilia Exhibit to honor the fighting men and women of the U.S. military, especially local veterans.

The exhibit will open Friday, Nov. 12 at the historic Depot from 3-7 p.m. and continue on Saturday, 10 a.m.-5 p.m. as part of citywide Veterans Day activities.

The city has successfully partnered with the Gulf South Military Collectible Club, Hancock County Library System and RSVP to bring together an exhibit that spans both World Wars.

The exhibit includes live models and mannequins showing uniforms of the services, field gear, weapons, handbooks and other supply memorabilia used during WWII. Service medals awarded during the WWII conflict will be exhibited, including the Medals of Honor for each branch of the service.

A special exhibit honoring the Tuskegee Airmen assembled by the Hancock County Library System will be unveiled Friday. An expanded exhibit of local news articles will be presented following the popularity of last year's presentation.

On Saturday the first video in the Magnolia Series, Henry Jetton Tudury, Mississippi's Most Decorated Doughboy, developed by Professor Charles Sullivan and Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College, will be shown throughout the day.

Tudury was a native of Bay St. Louis and two of his daughters still live in the community.

Local radio control plane operator Dick Stamm will display model aircraft from the WWI era and at 10:30 a.m. will demonstrate the flying of both an American and German model in a mock air battle on the Depot grounds.

The exhibit is open to the public and offered free of charge.

All children are welcome, but must be accompanied by an adult. Pets are asked to stay at home.

Scott educators take teachers to extremes for JASON

Scott Aquarium educators will take teachers "to extremes" in preparation for the 2000 edition of the JASON Project.

The JASON Project's satellite communications allows students to accompany teams of researchers and young people involved in exploration of the world's scientific wonders.

Organized by Dr. Bob Ballard, discoverer of the Titanic, JASON will this year focus on the human body's reactions to living and working in the extremes of ocean depths and outer space.

Live broadcasts will beam into the J.L. Scott Education Center and Aquarium Feb. 28-March 10 from NASA's international space station and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's Aquarius Underwater Laboratory in the Florida Keys.

Aquarium educators will lead workshops from 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Monday, Jan. 10, to introduce resources and activities and resources for "JASON XI: Going to Extremes." The sessions will be held at the Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College-Jefferson Davis Campus.

Lunch is provided at all sessions. The cost for training is $30 per teacher. Mississippi teachers also can earn continuing education credit for an extra fee.

Other professional sites are Pearl River Community College in Hattiesburg and the Mississippi State Department of Education in Jackson, Nov. 6; Northeast Community College in Booneville, Nov. 13; and Copiah-Lincoln Community College, Natchez, Nov. 20.

The Scott Aquarium has been a Primary Interactive Network Site (PINS) since the Naval Meteorology and Oceanography Command first brought the JASON Project to Mississippi in 1993.

Navy exercise is collaborative effort

One scientist collecting data is a good start. Add a dozen or so more and a collaborative effort begins!

That's exactly what is happening off the coast of Destin. The Naval Research Laboratory (NRL) from Stennis Space Center is a major participant in a basic research expedition to study how sound travels through the upper two feet of the seafloor.

"We're trying to better understand the process of acoustic energy scattering from the seafloor, and penetration of acoustic energy into the seafloor in order to better detect buried objects," said NRL's principal investigator, Mike Richardson.

This Office of Naval Research sponsored project selected the 600 x 600-meter Destin, Fla. site because of its uniformity—well sorted, fine- to medium-grain sand, and lack of vegetation, large shells, gas bubbles and mud layers.

Divers are in the water almost constantly, deploying and maintaining instruments, making visual observations, and collecting data. Each participant has its own dive team, but the divers work together to help each other out as the need arises.

"The main thing is that we're all working together," said Richardson.

NRL has several activities going on simultaneously. Core samples are being collected to study methane content and biology; buried motion sensors record low frequency wave data from the seafloor, airguns and hammer sources; sediment height is being photographed both digitally and with a stereo camera.

Just as weather affects the shape of the earth's surface, so does the environment affect the surface of the ocean floor.

Ripples, mounds, sand, mud, gas, fish, and the biology affect how sound travels into and bounces off of the seafloor. All of these must be considered and that's where the collaboration really pays off. Each player is using their equipment to collect similar data, but in different ways, and often under different conditions.

The University of Texas' Applied Research Laboratory (ARL) placed acoustic sensors into the seafloor on an angle to measure sound going into the sediment and sound scattered back into the water.

A remotely operated vehicle (ROV) traveling around the sensor emits signals which are received by both the sensor and the ROV, then transmitted back to the lab on ship.

Data is collected and analyzed in situ (where it is collected). "It is nearly impossible to reproduce a realistic ocean condition in the laboratory," said Nick Chotiros, ARL's lead scientist.

Buried arrays are inserted horizontally into the sediment without disturbing the upper 10 centimeters and measurements are tracked using mobile towers.

Diver-deployable receivers and transmitters collect overlapping data that will provide useful comparisons of results.

"The single most important thread of this project is to conduct these experiments carefully where all the environmental parameters are measured," said Chief Scientist, Eric Thorsus, APL.

Many seabed organisms hide in the seabed during the day and emerge at night to feed creating pits, burrows and mounds.

This activity in the seabed changes the characteristics that affect the way sound travels. Jumars and APL have devised some traps to collect these physical samples. But some samples are so small that they cannot be seen by the human eye.

The final program product will be a fully operational computer model to assist the Navy in its efforts to locate buried objects.

Kindergarten students

Kindergarten students at Charles B. Murphy Elementary School in Pearlinton had a great time painting pumpkins at the Pearlinton Public Library last week. Kindergarten assistant teacher Peggy Hayman helped the children make their pumpkins special. The Pearlinton Public Library is a joint venture of the Hancock County School District and the Hancock County Library System.

Public invited to oak tree pruning seminar

Mississippi State University Extension Service, along with the Hancock County Master Gardeners, will be hosting an Oak Tree Pruning Seminar on Wednesday, Nov. 10 at 9 a.m. at the corner of Felicity Street and Beach Blvd. in Bay St. Louis.

The seminar is open to the public and admission is free. Anyone interested in preserving and enhancing their oak trees is urged to attend.

The speaker will be Monroe Jordan, a self-taught tree maintenance professional who has many years of experience in oak tree maintenance.

Jordan is well known for his work along the Coast. Many of the Coast's beautiful oaks have been the recipient of his love and care. A live demonstration on the basic strategy of oak tree maintenance will be provided by Jordan. The public is encouraged to come see this artist at work. Educational materials will be available for the attendees.

"CUEVAS' QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Halloween started out like a very poor day only to clear up in time for activities about the area.

There was a very good crowd to visit the Cedar Rest Cemetery for the Hancock County Historical Tour.

I saw numerous youngsters about town making their regular trick-or-treat calls.

On Monday morning I received a telephone call from Jan Rutherford who reported that she and her dad, Big John, had a fine time with the trick-or-treaters Sunday night.

She said they were very much impressed how polite the children were this year.

I know Big John has been giving the candy out for many years from his Main Street residence. Jan said they could not believe the change in the youngsters this year, and this is very good.

I hope everyone had a great Halloween.

Saturday will be a big opportunity for Hancock County residents to dispose of Household Hazardous Materials/Waste.

The collection is a community service funded by the Mississippi Department of Environmental Quality in cooperation with the Hancock County Solid Waste District.

The collection will take place in the parking lot of Kmart, U.S. Highways 90 at 603, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday.

This is a time for all residents to get rid of those unused or leftover portions of products containing toxic chemicals.

Any product that is labeled caution, poisonous, toxic, flammable, or corrosive is considered a household hazardous waste.

Waste tires will be accepted with a limit of 20. No compressed gas cylinders will be accepted.

Check your utility rooms, kitchen cabinets, sheds, etc., as you may have some items that qualify for the collection.

This is a good time to properly dispose of those Household Hazardous Materials/Waste.

Merchants and residents do not want to forget the Bell South and Hancock County Chamber of Commerce-sponsored annual phone book recycling drive.

The chamber will kick off this year's drive with a gathering at the chamber's office on Thursday, November 11, 4 p.m. This is the same day that deliveries will begin for new phone books for the coming year.

Outdated phone books should be delivered to local participating schools from Nov. 11-Dec. 10. All public and private area schools are invited to participate. Each participating school will be awarded cash prizes based on the amount of books they collect.

The 1998 recycling drive winner for Hancock County was Hancock North Central Elementary, who collected 1,790 books.

The recycling of the old telephone directories helps save landfill space and additionally gives our schools an opportunity to make a few dollars to be used for our students.

Friday is the final night of the 1999 high school football season.

Bay High will close out the season against St. Stanislaus in the Joe McCullough Stadium.

The Tigers are fresh from a two point victory over the Hancock Hawks last week and can be the county champs with a victory over the Rocks.

Stanislaus is 7-3 for the season and Bay High 5-5, but when these two teams play, you can usually throw out their prior record for the year.

As has become a custom for the Bay High/St. Stanislaus game on Thursday night, Hancock Bank will sponsor a get-together for the Tiger and Rock-a-chaw players.

The social will be from 6 to 9 p.m. and is used for the players of both teams to promote good will and sportsmanship.

Friday night the Hancock Hawks will try to end with a winning season when they play host to Columbia at Hawk Stadium. The Hawks are 5-5 for the season.

The Pirates of Pass Christian are fresh from their first victory of the season last week and will play host to Forest County AHS.

With play like last week the Pirates could end the season with two victories in a row.

VA claims assistance

The State Veterans Affairs Board (SVAB) provides free casework and claims representation services to veterans and dependents who have claims before the Veterans Administration.

The veteran or dependent must appoint one of the veterans service organizations, or other organization, to which the agency is accredited as his or her power of attorney for VA purposes and then work with the representative in pursuing the claim.

SVAB employees are accredited representatives of a number of veterans organizations and can provide VA claims assistance for claimants who appoint the following organizations as power of attorney for VA purposes:

American Ex-Prisoners of War, The American Legion, American Red Cross, Blinded Veterans Association, Fleet Reserve Association, Military Order of the Purple Heart, Noncommissioned Officers Association, State Veterans Affairs Commission, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The SVAB claims service enables a veteran or dependent to have an experienced veterans service officer look over the claim and assist in its presentation.

In addition, the veterans service officer can assist in obtaining supporting documentation, can review VA decisions in relation to applicable regulations, laws and court decisions and can assist in presenting evidence at hearings and in pursuing appeals.

Applications for power of attorney can be made in my office at the time a veteran or dependent files for VA benefits.

Mississippi residents who are the unmarried surviving spouse of a member of the armed forces of the United States, the Reserves or National Guard who was killed or died while on active duty during a war, or during a time of national emergency declared by the President, or in an area determined to be of immediate military hazard by the Secretary of Defense, can purchase one passenger vehicle or pickup truck license plate for the sum of one dollar ($1) annually. Contact your county tax collector for further information.

Mississippi state law allows a war, conflict or invasion veteran to purchase one VETERAN license plate for an additional one time fee of $30 over and above regular license plate fees.

The additional $30 fee goes into a special fund to help indigent veterans who are residents of the Mississippi State Veterans Nursing Homes.

The State Veterans Affairs Board would like to expand eligibility for the license plates to all honorably discharged veterans and allow them to purchase a VETERAN license plate for each of their registered vehicles. The board will request that enabling legislation be introduced during the 2000 legislative session.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Abolish landfill board, give project to Port & Harbor

Dear Editor,
Now that the voters of Hancock County have soundly defeated the privately owned landfill idea and thereby indicated their distrust in the landfill board, I suggest the supervisors abolish it and consider the following:

In the eighties I was privileged to serve for a period of time on the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission, representing the City of Waveland.

There I learned a few useful things; such as, they keep some good people on board.

People who are experienced in making big ticket decisions, knowledgeable in grants, negotiations, financing, administration and best of all, they now have as their chairman Dave McDonald, a man of great honesty, ability, experience and dedication.

So my suggestion is for the board of supervisors to empower the Port and Harbor Commission with the charge of taking care of this problem along the lines of the wishes of the electorate.

My prediction is, the problem will be solved quickly, correctly and without fanfare.

Leaders should not consider changing Halloween date

To the Editor:
This letter is in regard to your front page article dated Oct. 21, "Halloween still Sunday".

It amazes and angers me to think that our supposed "leaders", namely our City Council members, would even begin to consider changing the date of Halloween.

Your paper stated that, according to someone's quote in the council, it was "too late in the game to shift the date".

I get the impression that the council seems to believe they should have the right to shift holidays. Why should any council members of any city be given the privilege of doing this?

Change Halloween because Saturday was a better day for it? Well, what about next year when it falls on a Monday, or the year after?

What are we to expect next? Perhaps we should have them move Thanksgiving to Saturday so that everyone can get a full work week in.

As far as the "concerns" that were raised over celebrating Halloween on a Sunday, because of "religious issues," I would like to direct council members to the website www.halloween.com.

It contains interesting information on the origins of Halloween. Rowan Moonstone, a long-time researcher of the Celts, explains that Halloween originally descended from the ancient Celtic festivals, which were considered religious, honoring their dead friends, similar to the national holiday of Memorial Day.

It was also a celebration of harvest. Trick-or-treating seems to have come from the ancient beliefs of these people in fairies that caused mischief on this night, and humans who copied them by going door to door begging treats, playing practical jokes on the homeowners who did not give treats.

It would have been good to read in your article how, even though other jurisdictions changed Halloween to Oct. 30, Bay St. Louis leaders did not believe it was their place to rearrange historical dates.

Sincerely,
Susan Stephens

Community / parent involvement appreciated

To the Editor:
Today, we face a growing problem of violence on school grounds. Here in Bay St. Louis, that call to parents for help is real!

A recent forum for school safety was held and 70+ parents and community members attended. I do believe that parents will be supportive if they feel they are a part of the process.

On the 26th of October, the Bay High JROTC held its annual open house, where community leaders, parents, and cadets met to have fun and to discuss the mission, goals and objectives of the corps.

Parents who attended were asked to help with the program through the Booster Club as well as other corps programs. The response was excellent!

Parents were asked to help plan, organize and execute several major trips and projects with the cadets between November, 1999 and May, 2000. The pledge of support was unanimous.

On behalf of my principal, Mrs. Sandra Reed, I want to sincerely thank all the cadets, community leaders, and especially, the parents who attended.

The corps has a population of 63. Yet, we had over 75 parents at the event. To me that is showing a true concern for students. Thank you.

Rutherford Pier to close on Friday

The City of Bay St. Louis will close the Rutherford Pier at Ulman Avenue and Beach Blvd. Friday beginning at 3 p.m. until 10:30 p.m. to host a welcome party for the Hancock County Tourism Development Bureau meeting planner tour. The pier will reopen for use at 10:30 p.m. for night fishing by residents.

"We have guests coming from as far away as New Jersey and Texas to tour Hancock County meeting facilities, and we are so happy to have our new pier as their first public event site."

"What better way for meeting planners to experience the essence of Bay St. Louis than a dinner on the pier? They will be on the water, enjoying a great dinner prepared by a Bay St. Louis chef, with a view of our historic homes and a lively downtown," said Mayor Eddie Favre.

Beth Carriere, executive director of the Hancock County Tourism Development Bureau, has organized the tour with the support and cooperation of local businesses to show the planners the versatility of the county in meeting their needs for planning exciting conferences and conventions.

"Our theme is 'Think Outside the Box' - we're selling a Mississippi that many of our guests have never seen, and Hancock County has every asset needed to make these planners be successful in their job," said Carriere.

The group will tour Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Diamondhead facilities that fit the exacting criteria of hosting a conference, special event or convention.

The City of Bay St. Louis offerings include the historic Depot for meetings and special events, City Park for outdoor special events and receptions and its $1 million Jimmy Rutherford Pier for the group to visit as well as Casino Magic hotel, casino, golf course and Key West Inn.

Carole and Mary's Olde Towne Catering will prepare the southern barbeque with homemade peach cobbler for Friday's event.

Book signing at Bookends

Bookends Bookstore will hold an autographing for Waveland residents Richard and Marina Campanella for their book, New Orleans, Then and Now, an historical geography of New Orleans, told through time-sequence photographs captured from street, roof and air.

The public is invited to meet the Campanellas Saturday, Nov. 6, 1-2:30 p.m. at Bookends, 111 Hwy. 90 in Bay St. Louis.

For information, call 467-9623.

Lakeshore Baptist revival

Lakeshore Baptist Church, Lakeshore Road, will hold a revival Sunday, Nov. 7 through Wednesday, Nov. 10.

The special services will be at 7 p.m. each night.

Brother Don Elbourne is pastor.

Anxious wait

Jimmie Ladner Jr. was among the anxious gathered at the historic downtown Hancock County Courthouse in Bay St. Louis Tuesday night as results from the general election trickled in. Ladner, a Democrat, defeated Republican F. Lee Bennett to win the tax assessor/collector's seat vacated by Eddie Murtagh, who chose not to seek re-election.

Air Show to honor Tricentennial

Keesler Air Force Base will tip its hat to Biloxi in honor of the city's 300th birthday when the base holds its annual Air Show. This year's event, scheduled to take place Nov. 6 at KAFB, will feature the Tricentennial as its theme.

The show promises to be a fun-filled event for people of all ages.

Activities include daring acrobatic flying demonstrations as well as static displays.

Those who attend will witness such feats as aerial dog-fight and formation flying.

They will also see displays of many types of military aircraft, some of which are vintage WWII planes.

To add to the fun, the Tricentennial Troubadours will be on hand with their lively interaction with the audience. There will also be a Tricentennial booth, which will offer gift items and keepsakes for sale.

Marcie Sierra, Tricentennial Commission events coordinator, is serving on the Air Show committee. She says, "We hope a lot of people will turn out for Keesler's annual community event."

"We, of course, are part of that community and are proud to be part of the fun. Keesler is such a wonderful community-minded place and they've helped us immensely. We want to be at the Air Show to show our support for them."

The gates open at 10 a.m. and close at 5 p.m., and the event is open to the public. Admission and parking are free.

Public legislative forum set for Nov. 15

Fifteen Coast organizations will sponsor the annual forum to advise Coast legislators of their issues of concern in anticipation of the convening of the Mississippi Legislature in January 2000.

Formal presentations will be made by each member of the Coalition to the legislators in attendance. A bound booklet of position papers from each group will also be presented to the legislators for their subsequent use in addressing these issues.

A moderator will facilitate a question and answer session after the presentations. The public is invited; there is no charge.

The forum will be Monday, Nov. 15, 7-8:30 p.m.,

Diamondhead Merchants Fair set

The fifth annual Diamondhead Business & Professional Association Merchants Expo will be held Thursday, Nov. 18 from 5 to 8 p.m. at the Diamondhead Country Club.

Over 50 merchants will be present with displays, food samplings, give-aways and door prizes.

Admission is free.

Anyone interested in the development of Diamondhead is invited to join the DBPA. Contact John Hall at 255-611 for merchant information. Meetings are the fourth Thursday of each month at 8 a.m. and will resume again in January.

unsuccessfully challenged in court by Bourgeois when she sought the Democratic nomination in the primary election.

Ladner, an Air Force veteran and newcomer to politics, has been employed in the Hancock County School District for the past five years, where he began as a work-based learning coordinator. He presently teaches diversified technology at the Hancock County Vo-Tech Center.

Ladner, 47, is a lifelong resident of Hancock County, born and raised in the Rocky Hill-Dedeaux community, and now resides in Necaise Crossing.

Complete but unofficial results give Ladner 4,144 votes or 58.5 percent to Randolph 3,131 votes or 41.5 percent.

The race for tax assessor/collector was wide open, since longtime incumbent Democrat Eddie Murtagh announced before primaries that he would not seek re-election. The primary races drew a crowded field of Democrats and Republicans, but in the end, Murtagh's chief tax appraiser, Republican F. Lee Bennett, would face Democrat Jimmie Ladner Jr.

Ladner, 37, is a former Hancock County Election Commissioner, who came close to winning the chancery clerk's seat four years ago.

He gathered 7,918 or 63 percent of the vote to 4,555 or 37 percent for Bennett.

Going into the general election, incumbent Republican Lisa Cowand was challenged for her District 3 Supervisor's seat by former supervisor, Democrat Roger Dale Ladner.

Ladner had avoided political debates amid speculation that he did not want to answer questions about why he agreed to resign his third term in 1987 after he pleaded guilty to taking $597 in kickbacks. He was one of 55 county supervisors caught in a four-year undercover investigation.

The complete but unofficial count shows Cowand, the mother of four and the only Republican and woman on the Board gathering a total 2,291 votes or 64 percent of the vote compared to 1,316 or 36 percent for Ladner.

She amassed 1,240 of her votes in the Diamondhead East precinct, and 664 votes in the North Bay West precinct, which includes those living around her Cedar Point home. But, she lost to Ladner in Crane Creek, Standard and Dedeaux.

Two other incumbent supervisors easily turned back opponents, in District 1, Lyonie "Jeep" Ladner, easily defeated Independent candidate Sherman Necaise.

The final tabulation gave Ladner 1,637 votes to 524 for Necaise, a semi-retired construction worker.

Incumbent Democrat and Board of Supervisor's President Philip Moran was defeated in his bid for re-election in the August primary runoff by Jay Cuevas, and Tuesday night he successfully turned back a challenge by Republican David Depreo, former sales manager for Charlie Henderson Ford.

Complete, but unofficial results give Cuevas, 40, of Kiln, 1,632 or 56 percent of the vote against 1,268 or 44 percent for Depreo.

Incumbents Steve Seymour of District 4 and Rocky Pullman of District 2 turned back Democratic challengers in the primaries, and were re-elected. They had no Republican or Independent opposition in Tuesday's general election.

Incumbent Democrat and Chancery Court Clerk Tim Kellar also had little trouble dispensing of a challenge from republican Ken Ahlers. Kellar, the son of the late Supervisor Adolph "Dolph" Kellar, gathered 9,237 or 74 percent of the votes cast compared to 36 percent or 3,096 for Ahlers.

Incumbent Democrat and Circuit Court Clerk Pam Metzler won re-election to a fourth consecutive term in the primary runoff, and had no runoff opponents.

In the race for county Coroner, Incumbent Democrat and longtime coroner Norma Stiglet easily warded off a challenge by Terese Richardson, a younger Republican opponent.

Stiglet collected 8,626 or 70 percent of the vote compared to 3,647 or 30 percent for Richardson.

There's a new Judge elected to the Justice Court Judge West bench, vacated by Lee Klein, who retired.

Lakeshore resident and Democrat Tommy Carver, 43, beat Republican challenger Harry Ward, a public defender in Hancock County, 3,439 to 1,617.

Incumbent Justice Court East Judge Joseph "Joe" Dobson had no opponents in the general election, and was returned to office with 6,055 votes.

Voters elected two new constables. Danny Hamby, a Harrison County Sheriff's Deputy and a Democrat turned back challengers by a Republican and an Independent candidate.

The final tally shows Hamby with 4,043, Republican Linda Buckley with 2,473 and Independent, Scott Thomas Duncan, 663.

Eric C. Martin Sr., won the Democratic nomination for Constable, West in the primary runoff, and had no opposition in the general election. His final tally was 4,358 Tuesday night. Martin, 42, is a lifelong resident of Hancock County and the Lakeshore, and is involved in youth programs and youth sports in the county.

In the special election for Election commissioners, Pamela Nussbaum LaFontaine, a Democrat, captured 938 votes. Democrat Eddie Burgeois had 550, and Republican Lem McCoy, 540. LaFontaine has been serving as interim Commissioner since Jim Odam resigned to run for another office.

Since there were three candidates in the race, and no clear winner, Metzler has scheduled a runoff election for the District 1 post for Nov. 16.

In the Commissioner, District 3 race, Margie M. "Marge" Kasper, the Republican incumbent appointee, was trailing Democrat James A. "Jay" Lagasse III by nine votes, 1,652 for Kasper to 1,659 for Lagasse. These vote totals could change too, so those results could change.

Hancock County's state legislative delegation stayed in tact, despite some having challengers.

In the race for the District 46 state Senate seat, Incumbent Democrat Scottie Cuevas turned back a challenge from Republican Dave Koger, a Diamondhead freelance journalist. Cuevas collected 7,656 in Hancock County votes compared to 4,665 for Koger.

State Rep. Dirk Dedeaux, a Democrat from the Sellers Community and the incumbent, handily defeated Republican Gerald Switzer. Dedeaux, who will begin his second term, gathered 3,677 votes in Hancock County to 1,870 for Switzer.

Incumbent state Rep. J.P. Compretta, a Democrat who represents house District 122, had no opponents and was re-elected in the primaries, along with incumbent Democrat and District Attorney Cono Caranna.

Hancock County residents also followed the state pattern and defeated Proposition #9, which would have put a two-term limit on state officials' terms of office. The vote was 7,461 against and 4,711 for.

busy intersection which has vehicles approaching and exiting the ramps of I-10, and other vehicles crossing the highway to come out of or go into the nearby Mississippi Welcome Center.

Pullman said a second trouble spot was state Hwy. 604 north of the old county landfill. He said there was a bad dip in the curve of the road, creating a road hazard, and he wants MDOT to fix it.

Supervisors also voted to get bid specifications needed for roof and structure repairs to the Farmer's Market behind the Civic Center on Longfellow Road.

County Purchasing agent Suzette Necaise got two telephone quotes, but she said both were "steep," and at that price, the project would have to go out to public bid.

Circuit Clerk Pam Metzler made a brief appearance before the Board and asked supervisors to look into formulating a Bereavement Policy for county employees. Currently, there is none, and employees take sick leave in times of bereavement.

Before adjourning until Nov.

15, supervisors declared Thursday, Nov. 11 a holiday in observance of national Veterans Day.

Board of Supervisors to put the touchy issue on the ballot, charged Favre and the three other Authority members and the media "tried to confuse the electorate through biased, one-sided reporting...and by misleading, inaccurate statements from officials of Waste Management and Mississippi Waste."

Sinders said the estimated cost of $4.3 million for a county landfill cited in the Authority's ad was "grossly exaggerated and without basis." She said the quotes were supplied by the engineering firm hired by Mississippi Waste, and "the Waste Authority has not conducted its own study to determine possible costs for construction of a county-owned landfill."

"Neither has the lack of need for any landfill in the county been addressed," Sindlers added.

She said the Authority "has continued to ignore the fact that there are other landfills nearby that will eagerly accept Hancock County waste at no increase in cost."

She called the Authority's long-term waste disposal plan "shortsighted," and said new technologies are emerging to dispose of household waste, but the Authority has not actively investigated them.

The latest, but uncertified tabulations furnished by the Circuit clerk's office showed the vote in favor of a landfill owned and operated by the county was 9,805 against and 2,386 for.

The vote in favor of a county owned landfill was 7,234 for and 4,286 against.

Hancock's Regional Solid Waste Authority has its regular monthly meeting next Tuesday. "Where we go from here, we'll just have to wait and see," said Favre.

He said the idea of the county owning and operating a landfill scares him.

New Aegis destroyer to be christened Saturday at Ingalls Shipbuilding

A search and rescue helicopter pilot, who earned the Congressional Medal of Honor for rescuing two downed aviators in Vietnam in June 1968, will be honored in Pascagoula at 11 a.m. on Saturday, Nov. 6, when the newest U.S. Navy destroyer is christened "LASSEN" at Litton Ingalls Shipbuilding, a division of Litton Ship Systems (NYSE: LIT).

Linda Barbara Lassen, of Pensacola, Fla., will christen the Aegis guided missile destroyer DDG 82 in honor of her late husband, at the pinnacle of ceremonies at Ingalls' facilities on the west bank of the Pascagoula River.

Joining Lassen as co-sponsor will be Barbara Orbon Pilling, wife of Admiral Donald L. Pilling, USN, Vice Chief of Naval Operations.

The public is invited to view the ship's champagne christening, a patriotic ceremony steeped in naval tradition. Bus transportation will be provided from the shipyard's west bank parking lots to and from the ceremony site.

Guests are requested to be at Ingalls by 10:30 a.m. The 125-member Panther Band from Pascagoula High School will entertain guests before the ceremony.

Maid of honor for the christening ceremony will be Lynell Marie Lassen, of Atlanta, Ga., daughter of the ship's namesake.

Serving as matrons of honor will be Pilling's daughters, Jennifer Pilling Stopkey and Kathleen Pilling Posivak.

In naming DDG 82, the United States Navy honors Commander Clyde Everett Lassen, USN, (1942-1994), a native of Fort Myers, Fla., who earned the Congressional Medal of Honor for his courageous rescue of two downed aviators while commander of a search and rescue helicopter in Vietnam.

On June 19, 1968, Lassen, then a 27-year old Lieutenant flying a UH-2 Seasprite, embarked on a mission to recover two downed naval aviators whose plane had been shot down deep in North Vietnamese territory.

Upon reaching the hilly terrain where the aviators were

Chevis completes course

Sidney A. Chevis, MD, a family physician from Bay St. Louis, has completed continuing medical education requirements to retain active membership in the American Academy of Family Physicians (MAFP), the national association of family doctors.

MAFP members are required to complete a minimum of 150 hours of accredited continuing medical study every three years.

The Academy, with 88,000 members, is one of the largest medical specialty organizations in the country. It was the first national medical group to require continuing medical education for members, thus ensuring their continuing medical expertise.

The specialty of family practice combines the latest in medical technologies with a long tradition of caring and service.

Today's family physician is educated and trained to care for the whole person, treating the majority of medical problems. Chevis has been an active member since 1975.

Family Practice was recognized in 1969 as a medical specialty by the American Medical Association and the American Board of Medical Specialties.

Family Practice was the first specialty to require its diplomates to recertify by taking recertification exams every six years.

hiding, LT Lassen made several attempts to recover the aviators, but dense tree cover, enemy weapons fire and intermittent illumination frustrated his efforts.

Determined to complete his mission, LT Lassen turned on the landing lights of the helicopter, despite the danger of revealing his position to the enemy.

After the pilots made their way to the helicopter and with his bullet-riddled helicopter dangerously low on fuel, LT Lassen evaded further anti-aircraft fire before landing safely at sea onboard a guided missile destroyer — with only five minutes flight time of fuel left in his helicopter's fuel lines.

The account of the rescue was logged as a successful, routine search and rescue mission. But at the home base for Helicopter Combat Squadron Seven, the

Bay to host 'FAM' tour

The Hancock County Tourism Development Bureau announces its first Meeting Planner/Association Executive Familiarization Tour Weekend.

The weekend tour of Hancock County's meeting and hotel facilities will start Friday, Nov. 5, 6:30 p.m. at the Rutherford/Ulman Avenue Public Pier, hosting guests for a welcome reception.

The theme, for the "FAM" is "Think Outside of the Box" for your next meeting or convention, showcasing the unique amenities and opportunities that Hancock County has to offer as a convention destination.

An all-day tour will occupy most of the daylight hours Saturday, starting at the new Diamondhead Country Club, with the option of Arnold Palmer Golf Academy for some, and a shopping tour of Old Town Bay St. Louis for others late afternoon.

A cocktail party and banquet at Torgy's On The Green will dazzle them that evening, with coffees and desserts served in black-tie style in the entertainment facility at Casino Magic.

Sunday morning the option of attending St. Rose de Lima's Gospel Mass is offered.

The potential for economic impact, as a result of these decision makers, rises above $4.5 million per year in convention and delegate spending.

Main Street highlighting children's needs Nov. 7

The 1999 National Observance of Children's Sabbaths, Wonderfully Made: Preparing Children to Learn and Succeed, celebrates the priceless legacy we can and must give to all children so that they can learn, succeed, flourish, and realize their God-given potential.

On Sunday, November 7 at the 11 a.m. worship service, Main Street United Methodist Church, located at 162 Main Street in Bay St. Louis, will join with thousands of other congregations across the nation in the eighth annual National Observance of Children's Sabbaths.

Through this observance, more than 200 religious organizations and denominations will focus on the needs of children and on how people of faith can respond through prayer, outreach, and advocacy.

This year's Children's Sabbath will emphasize the positive impact mentoring can have on children within our community. Data clearly show the desperate need for positive role models:

The Quantum Opportunities Program, (1989-91), funded by the Ford Foundation, showed that high school students from families receiving public assistance who had a mentor were more likely than those who did not to:

- Graduate from high school
- Enroll in college
- Become involved in community service

Be hopeful about their future
Main Street United Methodist Church invites you to consider the calling to become a mentor by learning more about the mentoring program established at the Bay/Waveland School District.

The program entails a commitment of one-to-three hours a week for three months. Your time can make a difference.

By completing the R.S.V.P. card contained in the Children's Sabbath Sunday bulletin, you will be invited to an informal coffee to be held in the near future at Main Street to learn more about the program.

As Main Street's continuing commitment to our community, there will be a special offering to benefit Hope Haven, the center for abused and neglected children located in Hancock County, during the Children's Sabbath worship service.

To attend the coffee, or just to learn more about the mentoring program, complete the R.S.V.P. card provided at the Children's Sabbath Service, or contact the church office at 467-4538 to join in this united voice for children.

Make a difference for a family this Christmas

This Christmas, dozens of Mississippi Gulf Coast children and their families may have the happiest holiday ever, if the Center for the Prevention of Child Abuse has its way.

The Center for the Prevention of Child Abuse (CPCA), is a locally operated, private, non-profit United Way agency that provides educational preventive and intervention services to families in need. It also coordinates the Coast's highly successful Adopt-A-Family program.

Last year's annual Adopt-A-Family program provided a special Christmas for 58 Coast families.

Donations of Christmas toys, clothing, or monetary gifts are now being accepted and are appreciated.

If your family, office, civic group or church would like to adopt a needy family, call the Center for the Prevention of Child Abuse today.

Deadline for becoming a sponsor for one of our families this Christmas is Wednesday, Nov. 10.

To participate or for information, call (228) 868-8686.

SPORTS

Ironman passion almost a reality

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

When people speak of Ironman, they are not talking about the heavy metal song that was popular in the early 1980s. More than likely, the people are talking about a sport that has been around for over two decades and is a model of complete fitness.

The sport known as Ironman started roughly 21 years ago as the brainchild of three devout competitors from three very diverse training backgrounds. The three men that started this training phenomenon were training as a swimmer, runner, and biker, respectively. They all claimed to be the fittest, but one day they decided to prove to themselves who really was the fittest. In Waikiki, there was a 2.4 mile rough water swim and a 112 mile bike race being conducted. In nearby Honolulu, there was the annual Honolulu Marathon being run. The three friends not only decided to do each together; however, they decided to compete in all three in the same day. From that day spawned a new sport, a new training regimen, and a new level of fitness. It has become known as The Ironman.

The Ironman and triathlons have grown so much in popularity that it will be introduced in 2000 as an Olympic event. The Olympic athletes will compete in a triathlon that covers a 0.9-mile swim, 24-mile bike race, and a 6.2-mile run.

Today, there are various distances for triathlons and Ironman competitions. And, they happen all over the world. This weekend Ironman Florida will take center stage and Bay St. Louis will be represented.

Michelle Van Peski, a native of Bay St. Louis, will be among the amateur competitors fighting to earn a qualifying spot for the Ironman World Championships to be held later this year. This is the first time that an Ironman competition will be held in Florida and Van Peski will be competing for one of five slots for the 30-34 age group for women. The Ironman Florida competition is a qualifier for the world championships. For one to compete in the world championships, you have to win a qualifying spot in a designated competition. Van Peski will go against roughly 85 other women for one of those five spots.

Van Peski commented on the sport itself, "The sport of Ironman is a really tremendous sport. How many other sports on the planet can an amateur actually compete on the same playing surface and level as the professionals."

Van Peski states that the course in Florida is a very flat one and the experts are predicting a world record to be set. Currently the world record for Ironman is 7:49.00. That's seven hours and forty-nine minutes!

Van Peski is a 1984 graduate of Our Lady Academy in Bay St. Louis and a 1990 graduate of Mississippi State University in Starkville. She received her degree from MSU in Electrical Engineering. Currently, she works for Space Systems Loral in Palo Alto, California. SSL is a company that manufactures communication satellites.

Van Peski first started with the Ironman and triathlon competitions about five years ago when she entered a triathlon sponsored by Danskin. Van Peski explained, "It was a complete accident that I got started in this. Each year Danskin sponsors a competition for the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Research Foundation. A friend of mine was racing in it and invited me to join her. It was a competition that featured a 1/2 mile swim, 12 mile bike race, and three-mile run. I thought this was something that I could never do. I was scared to death when I entered it."

Michelle rented a bike to compete in the race and eventually placed in the top 30% in the race. Since then, Van Peski has competed in over 20 triathlons and placing in the top ten in her division many times.

As Michelle crossed the finish line of her first race, she remembered, "I felt this great sense of accomplishment and pride. It felt great to know that all the discipline and training was worth it. Now, it has become a passion."

For the past two years, Van Peski has been doing half-Ironman races. This past December she decided to make the jump to the next level and reach for her dream of competing in the Ironman. Michelle explained that it takes a well-devised plan of attack to train for the Ironman. She developed her plan a year in advance. Now that she is almost at the end of her training for her first Ironman, she recalls, "I made the plan for the year last December. You have to train in four-week periods. The first three weeks of the training regimen is increasing the volume and intensity of training while the fourth week becomes a rest week. The fourth week allows the body to recover. During the most intense part of my training, I was doing 35 miles of running, 180 miles of biking, and about 10,000 yards of swimming. It had gotten to the point where I was just sick of the training. That's when my training partners said that I was ready."

Van Peski continued, "The training for an Ironman is a lesson in perseverance. All this discipline and training, I can take into each aspect of my life. I feel better at work and in life. This training has made me stronger in all aspects. For me, I know that I am not going to quit at anything."

Michelle regrets just one thing from her training. She just wishes that she would have started earlier. She elaborates, "I remember watching some of these competitions on television at a young age. But, I never thought that I would actually be doing one of them. I just hope that by my competing in this event, it will encourage others to check it out. This is a sport for all ages. There are people in their 80s that are models of fitness for all of us. It is a wonderful arena to help keep the body and mind

Tigers & Rocks battle for Crab Trap

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
We all know that uncommon things happen around Halloween. On October 29th, some strange things did happen in Hancock County high school football action.

Hancock High School hosted the Bay High Tigers for their Homecoming football game. The Tigers paid no attention to the pomp and circumstance surrounding the event. They went out and played their best defensive ball game of the year en route to a 9-7 district win over the Hawks.

With 3:16 remaining in the game, the Tigers defense, led by Michael Simpkins, swallowed the Hawks in their own endzone forcing a safety. The Hawks had a little trickery up their sleeve, as well. On the ensuing kickoff, the Hawks recovered the onside kick to give them one last shot to claim the victory. However, the Tiger defense held firm and strong as they preserved the win.

Tiger quarterback Ty Barrett accounted for his 16th touchdown of the year when he connected with Terry Lewis for a Tiger score with :46 left in the first half.

Late in the fourth quarter, the Hawks evened the score when Trellony Mayfield crossed the goal line from four yards out. Mayfield added 117 yards on the ground for the Hawks in the loss.

This week the Hawks will host the Columbia Wildcats and their Notre Dame Box offense to end the 1999 regular season. Columbia has owned the Hancock County teams this season as they have downed SSC and Bay High. The Hawks can help avoid a sweep of Hancock County by the Wildcats if they can get their playmakers back in the mix.

Hancock needs their offensive line to step up and control the line of scrimmage against a physical Columbia front. Mayfield, Chris Goff, and Brandon Necaize need to produce for the Hawks to help offset the confusing Wildcat offense. With the loss the Hawks fall to 5-5 overall and 3-3 in the division. The Tigers improve to 5-5 and 2-4 in the division. This is the first time since 1992 that the Tigers have won five games in a season.

The Bay High Tigers will tangle with the St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws in a cross-town battle for bragging rights and the Crab Trap Trophy.

The St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws dropped a hard fought contest with the 17th ranked Maroon Tide of Picayune last Friday. The Rocks gave it their all but came up short 16-0 against the Tide.

It was a 6-0 game until late in the fourth quarter when Picayune used a long drive to add another score and pinned the Rocks deep in their territory. A bad snap went over the head of Rock quarterback Jason Santiago who threw the ball out of the back of the endzone for a Tide safety.

However, some good things happened for Santiago as he passed for 115 yards and set a new single-season passing record for SSC. He now has passed for 1,535 yards in 1999. He eclipses the mark set by Nathan Middleton back in 1994 of 1,510 yards.

Another negative for SSC was the fact that the ground game never got going for the Rocks. Picayune held Rock workhorse Kris Cannon to a career low 21 yards rushing.

Cameron Byrne, Stephen Peterman, and B.J. Peralta led a solid Rock defense on Friday with 14, 11, and 10 tackles, respectively.

The Rocks will travel across town to take on the Bay High Tigers and their potent offensive attack in the regular season finale on November 5.

The Rocks will need the offensive line of Willie Golden, Peterman, Hunter Dawkins, Travis Fucich, John Ellis, and Neil Favre to control the line of scrimmage against a tough front line of Tigers led by Bert Hopgood and Simpkins. Santiago and Cannon will have to showcase their best efforts against a Tiger defense that swarmed all over Hawk playmakers last week.

The Tigers will counter with a mature leader in Ty Barrett. Barrett has an arsenal of weapons to throw to including Ronald Brown, Terry Lewis, Gary Vincent, and Jason McKay. However, the Rock defensive secondary has given up an average of 22 yards passing over the last four games.

Barrett's most crucial weapon may be his ability to run the football. At 6'2", he is a tough quarterback to bring down and has proven that with over 1900 yards of total offense this season.

Santiago has his share of weapons to in Grady Willis, Aaron Dunklin, Brandon Rayborn, and Peterman. Plus, he has a running back in Cannon that is threatening to be the only back on the Coast to break 1500 yards rushing this season. You can throw wins, losses, and record books out the window on this one. It will be home-cooked rivalry at its best. And, in the middle are bragging rights and a crab trap.

Kickoff for both games is 7:30pm. Hope to see you at the game!!!!

Sea Wolves take two lumps and fall to 3-4-0

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Last week was a tough one for the Mississippi Sea Wolves. They lost to both Mobile and Birmingham. The loss to Mobile was a 4-2 road loss to the unbeaten Mysticks. The loss to Birmingham was 4-3 in the Wolves Den.

On Saturday, November 6 the Sea Wolves will take on the Jackson Bandits whom they defeated earlier in the season 6-1 in a very physical contest. In the first meeting ever between the two teams, the Bandits and the Sea Wolves combined to log 98 penalty minutes. Currently, former Sea Wolf player Troy Mann is the leading scorer for the first-year franchise with six points.

On Sunday, Mississippi will travel about 50 miles down the road to Mobile to take on the Mysticks. Mobile has beaten the Sea Wolves both times the teams have played this season. Mobile leads the league with 5.33 goals per contest while yielding just 2.67 goals an outing.

A positive for the Sea Wolves is the fact that that Mississippi leads the league in home power play record at 33% and fifth overall at 25%.

Patrick Rochon played in his 200th game as a Sea Wolf on Tuesday night against South Carolina. Results of that game were not available at press time. Last Friday night, J.F. Aube scored his 300th regular season point. Finally, Chuck Thuss' next victory will make him the Sea Wolves all-time winningest goalie. The Mississippi Sea Wolves are the defending ECHL Kelly Cup Champions. Come on out and see the 'coolest game in town.'

Jr Hawks finish at 6-1

The Hancock Hawks' Junior High football team finished the season with a 34-18 win over the Picayune Maroon Tide.

Rob Smith opened a 28-point second quarter by Hancock with a 22-yard run.

The two-point conversion was no good.

Later in the period, Kerry

Ladner scored on a 36-yard pass from Philman Ladner. Smith added a two-point conversion to make the score 14-0.

Smith scored his second touchdown of the night on an eight-yard run. Kerry Ladner added the two-point conversion for the Hawks.

Daniel Spiers closed out the Hawks scoring in the second period with an 88-yard run. The two-point conversion was no good.

Spiers also added a 46-yard run in the third quarter to end the Hawk scoring for the game.

Picayune added touchdowns in the second, third, and fourth quarters to make the final score.

Hancock finished the season with a 6-1 record. Offensive players of the game were Rob Smith and Nick Saucier. The defensive players of the game were Spiers and Charles Bolden.

Pass Diamond Club to hold sports memorabilia auction

The Pass Christian High School Diamond Club will hold a dinner and sports auction on Saturday, November 6, at the West Harrison Civic Center on Espy Avenue.

The dinner will begin at 6pm. During the dinner there will be a silent auction. A live auction will commence at 7:30pm. Admission to the event is a $5 donation to the Diamond Club.

Some of the items that will be auctioned off will consist of memorabilia of All-Pro Green Bay Packer quarterback Brett Favre, former Ole Miss All-American and New Orleans Saints All-Pro quarterback Archie Manning, Heisman Trophy winner Doc Blanchard, Chicago Cubs pitcher Steve Trachel, former Los Angeles Dodger and Minnesota Twins pitcher Gary Rath, plus several other items.

many local businesses have donated items including Hilyer House, Valentino's, Oreck Manufacturing Plant, K-Mart, and Wal-Mart.

The objective that Michelle has set for herself in Florida is a simple one. She wants to claim one of the five qualifying spots for her age group. Van Peski has set a goal time of 13:00 to complete the course. Michelle will have her immediate family traveling with her to Florida, as well as some training partners, to help cheer her on. However, those back in Bay St. Louis salute you on your challenge and wish you the best in the race of your life. Nevertheless, Bay St. Louis is proud to be represented by a champion of the caliber of Michelle Van Peski. Good luck!!!

St. Stanislaus students qualify for Duke University's TIP Program

Brother Ronald Hingle, SC, Principal of St. Stanislaus, has announced that 24 seventh grade students have qualified for participation in the 20th Annual Scholastic Talent Search sponsored by the Duke University Talent Identification Program (TIP).

Due to their qualifying in the 98th and 99th percentile on the Stanford and/or Iowa Achievement Tests, the following students were recognized for the 1999 Duke TIP Program:

Kevin Bechel, Jackson Boone, Austin Boudreaux, Cody Cannon, Eric Cranford, Michael Cure, Ployd Dedeaux, Edward Gamard, Joe Gibbons, Robert Goggins, James Hammett, Heath Hansell, Frankie Harvey, Ted Hillanbrand, Austin Ladner, John Prince, Patrick Remel, Ramsey Shawa, Stefan Sofianos, Christian Walter, Brandon Watts, Grant Wilkinson, Parker Wishik, and Prank Zondlo.

The TIP Program is conducted annually in a 16-state region in the South, Southwest, and Midwest. The purpose of the program, initiated in 1980, is to identify academically superior students.

One of the goals of the program is to assist participants by providing them with information about their ability and educational options.

Accordingly, TIP distributes

a variety of informational materials to participants, and discusses the meaning and preparation for the ACT and SAT testing programs.

More than 280,000 students have participated in the program since its inception. The 24 St. Stanislaus students will now take either the SAT or the ACT tests, tests normally taken by college-bound juniors and seniors.

"It is obvious that the quality of our students continues to improve," said Brother Adrian Gaudin, St. Stanislaus Junior High Guidance Counselor. He continued, "We are grateful for the opportunity to work with them."

Take A Night Out

Sammy Kershaw is back at Magic by popular demand

Sammy Kershaw is typically blunt about his new album, Maybe Not Tonight.

"I think it's probably the best thing I've ever done," he says. After the chart-topping triumph of "Love Of My Life," from his last release, 1997's Labor Of Love, those are heady words indeed for a star with a string of platinum and gold albums to his credit.

Since catapulting to the forefront of the contemporary country scene in 1991, Kershaw has been revered as a true-to-his-roots honky-tonker with a gift for telling real-life tales.

But "Love Of My Life" helped focus attention on one of Kershaw's biggest, if not in the past, fully evident gifts: his timeless talent as a singer of classic ballads.

"I've always been a ballad singer, really," he explains. "Yet my career hasn't been built on ballads."

"It's been mostly up-tempo stuff. But I think a lot of people are going to like this new album when they hear it, and see that it is a little different."

That difference is signaled by the first track on Maybe Not Tonight: his duet with Lorrie Morgan on the title tune, sure to be one of 1999's memorable vocal events.

It's a song and performance that goes straight to the heart, and it's matched by such other stirring ballads as "Without Strings," "Love Me, Loving You," "When You Love Someone," "How Can I Say No," Look, "What I Did To Us" and "How Much Does The World Weigh."

Kershaw credits Mercury Nashville Senior Vice President of A&R Keith Stegall with "finding a way to bring something else out that I hadn't brought out yet."

"It might have been the type of songs we cut that did that. I don't really know, and I don't really question it," Kershaw says.

But he does assert that "Keith Stegall saved my career."

While Kershaw and Stegall have opened up new dimensions to Kershaw's artistry, Maybe Not Tonight will also satisfy fans of Sammy's upbeat country boy sensibility as previously heard on hits like "Cadillac Style," "Queen of My Double Country music superstar Sammy Kershaw will perform at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis this Friday, Nov. 5, beginning at 9 p.m. Tickets are $20, $25 and $30.

Wide Trailer," "National Working Woman's Holiday" and "Third Rate Romance."

He once again revives a classic hit on "More Than I Can Say," a chart-topper for Bobby Vee in 1961 and Leo Sayer in 1980, while also displaying his gift for charming love songs on "Me And Maxine."

His penchant for sly humor continues with "Ouch," and as always, Sammy delivers yet another scorching honky-tonk rave-up on "Louisiana Hot Sauce," which also pays tribute to his beloved home state.

Growing up in the heart of Cajun Country, Kershaw learned his craft and many of his life's biggest and toughest lessons early on, following the death of his father when Sammy was 11.

Working a variety of jobs by day while playing roadhouses at night to support his family, he opened shows for stars like Ray Price, Merle Haggard and George Jones while barely into his teens.

When the pressures of growing up fast took their toll in the form of a serious drug and alcohol problem, he quite his bad habits cold turkey in 1988, and took a break from music to work as a remodeling supervisor at Wal-Mart.

"I finally put my family first. I'd never done that before in my life," explains Sammy. "So I guess the good Lord said, 'the boy's ready, because he finally knows what's important.'"

His reward came when Mercury heard one of his tapes in 1990, and launched the singer to immediate success and acclaim the following year.

After decades of hard work and daunting tribulations, Kershaw now enjoys the blessings bestowed by his career.

He maintains his office on an 80-acre farm just outside of Nashville, where good old-fashioned labor and the comfort of a refuge where he can unwind provide an ideal counterpoint to his life as a recording artist and performer.

"If you're having a bad day, and something goes wrong, you can walk outside, go ride a horse, go fishing, you can do whatever you want, take a hike up in the woods. When you get back, you're not upset any more," he observes.

He's also devoted himself to sharing the fruits of his success with the Sammy Kershaw Foundation of Acadiana, based in a 100-year-old building Sammy is currently remodeling in his hometown of Kaplan, La.

An annual concert and accompanying golf and softball tournaments are just one of the many fund-raising activities Kershaw undertakes for the Foundation, which devotes its efforts to giving kids a helping hand.

"We build baseball fields, remodel old baseball fields, buy winter coats and milk and diapers for kids," he explains. "We help abused kids, kids who are sick, kids with heart problems and eye and hearing problems. We do a whole lot, and it's all for kids."

It's all part of the way that Sammy uses the lessons he's learned to enhance his music, his life, and the lives of others.

"After all the things I've lived through, it's finally all coming together, and showing me why things happened. Everything happens for a reason," he concludes.

And now I'm finally able to look at all the pieces of the puzzle, and see all the good and bad that happened to me, and see why it happened, and where I am going in my life."

Wynonna to perform at Biloxi Grand

On Friday, Nov. 12 at 9 p.m., celebrated country singer Wynonna Judd will step into the spotlight for a special one-night-only performance at the Biloxi Grand Theatre.

Wynonna will be performing many of her most loved hits along with some brand new recordings. And with the scheduled release of a new album in January 2000, she's poised to conquer the charts once again.

Although Wynonna is a very successful artist today, her beginnings were much more humble. Growing up in a small mountaintop house in Kentucky with no TV or phone left Wynonna to develop her own means of entertainment.

At the age of 10, Wynonna was given a guitar from her mother Naomi. To help pass the time and create a little home-made entertainment, the two began singing together.

By the time Wynonna was a teenager, they had honed their music talents and were ready for new challenges. In 1979, the Judd family, including younger sister Ashley, moved to Nashville to pursue those new-found music dreams.

As luck would have it, Naomi met a producer for RCA records and managed to get an audition. Backed by only Wynonna's guitar, the two gave a live audition for RCA executives. Within 45 minutes, The Judds were RCA recording artists.

As The Judds, they sold more than 20 million records, won over 60 industry awards including 5 Grammy's, 9 CMA's and 8 Billboard music awards, and were one of the top-grossing touring acts in America. But in 1990, a serious illness to Naomi forced Wynonna to go it alone.

As a solo artist Wynonna has sold over 9 million records, had 14 top ten hits and is about to release a new album. Tickets are on sale now at the Biloxi Grand Theatre Box Office. Call 1-800-WIN-2-WIN ext. 2804. Tickets also available at TicketMaster outlets. Tickets are $39.95 floor and $34.95 balcony.
